JUNE 4-6, 2017
AGRICULTURAL ANIMAL BIOETHICS WORKSHOP
INDIANAPOLIS, IN

This two-day USDA Challenge Grant-funded workshop will provide curriculum and resources on animal bioethics to instructors of relevant courses in agricultural sciences and veterinary medicine.

Instruction will include development and effective use of tools for bioethics instruction.

Participants will be able to tailor materials and practice incorporating them into moral deliberation about ethical issues in animal agriculture.

Facilitators will provide guidance and constructive feedback intended to foster optimum course content delivery.

- Facilitators include Dane Scott (University of Montana) and Paul Thompson (Michigan State University).

Co-hosted by Purdue University and University of Maryland in collaboration with Michigan State University, University of Alaska, Anchorage and Texas A & M University.

Participants will have reasonable travel expenses reimbursed; those eligible will also receive a $500 honorarium.
